About the Event

The 2025 World Rowing Cup II takes place in Lucerne, Switzerland, from June 27 to 29. As part of the prestigious World Rowing Cup series, this regatta is the second and final event of the 2025 season. Only two regattas are being held this year instead of the usual three. Overall World Rowing Cup winners will be determined by points accumulated across both events.

This regatta also marks the return of two Paris 2024 Olympians, Paul O'Donovan and Imogen Magner. Siobhán McCrohan, who secured a bronze medal at the 2024 World Rowing Championships, returns to compete in the Lightweight Women's Single Sculls.

Rowing Ireland will be represented by 19 athletes competing across 7 boat classes. Among them is Sathbh Ní Laoghaire, who will make her Senior International debut in the PR3 Mixed Double Sculls.

PR3 rowers can compete in standard racing boats, as defined by the World Rowing Rules of Racing, which allow the use of sliding seats. Rowing Ireland previously fielded a PR3 Mixed Coxed Four at the 2012 London Paralympic Games, though in recent years, Irish para athletes have mainly competed in the PR2 category. Tiarnán O'Donnell and Sadhbh Ní Laoghaire will race in the PR3 category in Lucerne, as the PR2 event is not being held due to a lack of entries. Their participation will provide valuable racing experience and support their classification ahead of the World Championships.

- Club: Bantry Rowing Club
- Hometown: Bantry, Cork
- Position: Stroke

Sadhbh started her para rowing journey in 2024 . In that same year, Sadhbh took home two golds from the 2024 Home International Regatta in both the 2000 metre race and 500 metre sprint race. Tiarnán O'Donnell

- Age: 27
- Club: Lee Rowing Club

A relative newcomer to rowing, Tiarnán has already shown immense potential, transitioning from being one of Ireland's top wheelchair basketball players to rowing.
